

Organon Washington Consumer Health Data Privacy Notice

This notice supplements Organon's privacy policy and applies to personal data defined as "consumer health data" subject to the Washington State My Health My Data Act (MHMDA).

Consumer Health Data We May Collect

The consumer health data we may collect depends on the context of your interactions with Organon, the choices you make, the products, services, and features you use, and as allowed by applicable law. The MHMDA defines consumer health data very broadly. Thus, some of the information we may collect may be considered consumer health data.

Examples of consumer health data may include, but are not limited to:

- Individual health conditions, treatment, diseases, or diagnosis.
- Social, psychological, behavioral, and medical interventions.
- Health-related surgeries or procedures.
- Use or purchase of prescribed medication.
- Bodily functions, vital signs, symptoms, or measurements.
- Diagnoses or diagnostic testing, treatment, or medication.
- Gender-affirming care information and reproductive or sexual health information.
- Biometric data.
- Genetic data.
- Precise location information that could reasonably indicate a consumer's attempt to acquire or receive health services or supplies.
- Data that identifies a consumer seeking "healthcare services," which means any service provided to "assess, measure, improve, or learn about a person's mental or physical health" and includes, among other things, use or purchase of medication.

Sources of Consumer Health Data

We may collect personal data (which may include consumer health data) directly from you, third parties, or from publicly available sources. More information is described in the Sources of Personal Information section of our privacy policy.

Our Collection and Use of Consumer Health Data

With your consent, we may collect and use consumer health data for:

- Performing the services or providing the products reasonably expected by an average consumer who requests those products or services;
- Ensuring security and integrity to the extent the use of the consumer health data is reasonably necessary and proportionate for these purposes;
- Short-term, transient use, including, but not limited to, non-personalized advertising shown as part of a consumer's current interaction with us; provided that we will not disclose the consumer's Personal Information to a third party and or build a profile about the consumer or otherwise alter the consumer's experience outside the current interaction with the business;
- Maintaining or servicing accounts, providing customer service, processing, or fulfilling orders and transactions, and verifying customer information; and
- Undertaking activities to verify, maintain, improve, or enhance the quality or safety of a service or device that we own, manufacture, or control.

Our Sharing of Consumer Health Data

We may disclose consumer health data to the following categories of third parties:

- affiliates and partners
- service providers
- potential purchasers of our assets or business
- health care providers
- government entities
- courts and law enforcement

The purposes for such disclosures include:

- our business operational purposes;
- to facilitate a merger, sale, joint venture or collaboration, assignment, transfer, or other disposition of all or any portion of our business, assets, or stock (including in connection with any bankruptcy or similar proceedings);
- to assert and defend legal claims, and otherwise as permitted or required by law;
- to conduct research, analytics, and data analysis;
- to detect and prevent fraud, secure our systems and facilities, and perform accounting, audit, and other internal functions, such as internal investigations; and
- to comply with laws, legal processes, and internal policies.

Effective Date: 31 March 2024

We do not sell consumer health data (and have not done so in the preceding 12 months). (Under MHMD, a “sale” is the disclosure of consumer health data to a third party for monetary or other valuable consideration).

How to Exercise Your Rights

MHMDA provides certain rights with respect to consumer health data, including rights to access, delete, or withdraw consent relating to such data, subject to certain exceptions. The link to the web form where you can exercise your privacy rights can be found here.

If your request to exercise a right under the MHMDA is denied, email PrivacyOffice@Organon.com, provide details of your concerns, and reference our decision on your data request so that we may adequately address your appeal. We will respond to your appeal in accordance with applicable law. If your appeal is unsuccessful, you can raise a concern or lodge a complaint with the Washington State Attorney General at www.atg.wa.gov/file-complaint.
