

Juliana Papa Drinane

Head of Manufacturing and Supply

Juliana Papa Drinane serves as our Head of Manufacturing and Supply. Previously, she served as Head of Global Supply Chain Management. She has been with Organon since spin and provides strategic and operational perspective in support of company's growth aspirations while delivering value through Organon's global supply chain and manufacturing network.

Prior to joining Organon, Juliana spent 28 years at Merck, known as MSD outside the U.S., where she held various leadership roles including Manufacturing Lead for the Organon Spin-off, Value Chain Lead for Established Brands and Women's Health, and numerous roles in Supply Chain Strategy, Product Commercialization, Technical Operations, and Engineering. She has built her 30+ year career in the pharmaceutical industry on core principles of adding value, following her passion, learning from others, thriving on challenge, and forging meaningful professional relationships all while striking a delicate work-life balance raising three children along the way.

Juliana received a BS in Chemical Engineering with Honors from Lafayette College. She volunteers her time with a NJ based non-profit, America's Grow A Row where she has been a Board member since 2013 and served as Board Chair from 2018-2024.
